Please do not interfere with public parklands around urban areas - particularly those around Adelaide. These open parklands make Adelaide a unique city, and selling sections off to various private enterprises, football clubs, etc. sets a very dangerous precedent. These lands are for public use, not private profit, and any discussion must be guided by local indigenous groups.

Please ensure that codes allow for local area decisions as the heritage of each area needs to remain under the close watch of local councils, rather than at a state level. Planning and design decisions should not be universally (centrally) operated, but made by democratically elected local councils.

I also feel that the consultation submission process has been deliberately constructed in a rude and often (deliberately) complicated manner to exclude much of the broader community - especially for the who might not be computer literate, or have English as a second language. This really is a shame as it creates a power dynamic that favours those who seem to have already made up their mind.

Finally, again - Do not sell (lease or rent) public parklands - please do not go down in history as part of the generation that destroyed a city.
