To Minister Knoll,

Firstly, thank you for overseeing such a huge project in reforming the development & planning rules in SA. Times change and so must the way we live, work and play.

I have only just discovered that this is happening and that the new rules are open for public consultation.

I figured I'd have enough time to have a look and provide feedback within a couple of weeks when the consultation period closes, until I tried to read the documents.

I need more time.

They are epic.

As they should be but I need more time to really sift through the proposed changes and what they mean.

I am grateful that we, the public who will be acutely impacted by these changes, are able to provide feedback but I fear that we need more time, coming out of the "silly season" which quickly became the bushfire season for many of us.

I'm still doing shifts in the incident management team for relief centre coordination and only just getting back into normal routine and i havent even been directly impacted by the fires.

Are you able to please push the deadline out a few more months so that more people are able to contribute to this epic new plan?

Thank you again for your work on this.

Warmly,

Cristel
