Good afternoon,

I am against over-simplification of the planning laws. I agree there should be some simplification but this is taking it way too far.

I live in Glandore and I believe the council planning laws for our area are reasonable. It has impacted upon my renovation but the rules were there before I bought and I like our area. Through state government intervention a few houses have bypassed the council regulations and these happen to be ugly additions not overly appreciated in our neighbourhood.

To me the revisions sound like big business having sway over our laws yet again - pardon my cynicism.

Regards
Brendon
